

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An exemplary printing device and related systems are described. One exemplary printing device includes one or more print cartridges configured to selectively eject generally fluidic material onto a media. At least one print cartridge of the one or more print cartridges is configured to eject a first generally fluidic material comprising a slurried suspension.